A DISPATCH to the New York Dramatic News from Chicago, where Hermann the Great has been playing a week's engagement, says:

"Hermann the Great never knew how popular he was until he struck this city. He received an ovation at the Great Northern Theatre, and I came across hundreds who were unable to gain admission. His opening was a thing phenomenal and for a starter I never have seen anything to equal it. He is a perfect excellence, and that is the great deal, for magicians are very lucky here."

Confederate Veteran Day.

Wednesday was Confederate Veteran Day at the Lexington Elks Fair, and notwithstanding the downpour of rain and the accompanying wind and slush, hundreds of the "old boys" were in attendance and enjoyed themselves to the limit. Everything was free to the "Vets" and they made the most of it. Many of them renewed their youth and spent many enjoyable moments on the Midway.

Out under the great trees back of the floral hall the scene at the dinner hour was inspiring, unique and characteristic, nothing like it ever having been seen before at a Kentucky fair. There have been Confederate reunions before, but on no occasion has the events been more thoroughly enjoyed or more highly successful than on this occasion.

About twenty tables covered with snow-white cloths and loaded with good substantial Kentucky fare were spread under the trees and around them gathered the guests to be served by girls wearing white dresses and ribbon bows of red and white.

The Daughters of the Confederacy had the luncheon in charge and skillfully handled the great quantities of delicacies.

The oldest soldier that registered was Dr. A. H. Wall, of Maysville, who is aged 91. He is Commander of the Mayville Camp of Confederate Veterans and was a member of Gano's Cavalry Regiment in Gen. John H. Morgan's division.

Another aged veteran who registered is John Jones, of Clark county, aged 81, who was a member of Chenault's regiment, Morgan's command. This noble old soldier is badly crippled, but he this year managed to cultivate five acres of corn alone. "This proves," said another veteran, "that we Confederates are self-sustaining and not dependent upon pensions for a living."

Col. Thos. Johnson, of Mt. Sterling, who commanded a regiment of cavalry in Virginia, and was 59 years of age on the 4th of last July, is among the old ones.

The Leader says: "Through the kindly assistance of Col. A. T. Forsyth, of Paris, and member of John H. Morgan Camp, C. V. A., of that city, who knows most everybody now on earth, the Leader is enabled to give a list of some of the visiting veterans which follows:

"Bourbon County—Capt. J. R. Rogers, Judge Russell Mann, W. M. Layson, N. C. Rogers, A. T. Forsyth, W. H. Whaley, W. H. Boone, J. T. Quisenberry, Joseph A. Miller, Col. E. F. Clay, J. W. Payne, A. J. Love, H. M. Carpenter, G. T. Bradley, Chas. H. Meng, Edward Rice, J. W. Woodward, Benj. Dykes, Quincy Burgess, Joseph Hedges, John Moreland, James Johnson, Thos. T. McIntyre, Charlton Lowe, John D. Penn, John C. Bedford, H. Horton, R. L. DeJarnette, M. Bowles, Gano Hildreth, W. C. Stipp, Capt. T. E. Moore, E. Mink."

Capt. John A. Miller, of Atlanta, Ga., with his wife, nee Miss Mollie Hall, of Maysville, were greeted by his old comrades from Bourbon.

Hermann the Great Coming.

Our theatre goers should not forget that on next Friday night, the 23rd, the Grand Opera House in this city will inaugurate the season of 1901-1902 with Hermann the Great. This is in all probability the best attraction the management could have secured to open the season and is deserving of a large audience. It will be several years before Hermann will be again seen in this country, for after making a trip to the Pacific coast this fall and winter he will sail for Australia in the spring for an engagement lasting two years, after which he goes to England. An especial invitation is extended to persons living in the country who attend the circus on that day to re-appear to see Hermann at night.

Sewer Work to Start at Once.

Contracts for the work will be let on September 2d, and work will be begun at once. It is thought it will require about four months for the completion of the sewers. By the first of January, 1902, our citizens will, in all probability, be enjoying the benefits of a first-class sewer system. It will embrace over three miles of sanitary and surface sewerage.

Attempted Highway Robbery.

When Mr. Fudold resisted the negro shot at him four times and hit him in the head with a rock. The gentleman's cries brought assistance and the negro made his escape. He was, however, arrested Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Burke and Gibson and lodged in jail. His examining trial will take place before Judge Smith to-morrow.

Reception to "Fighting Joe."

The reception to Gen. Joe Wheeler at Lexington yesterday was a most enthusiastic one. As the old veteran stepped from the train on his arrival the rebel yell went up from thousands of throats, which fairly drowned the strains of "Dixie" played by the band. Notwithstanding the rain an enormous crowd greeted him and the enthusiasm over his appearance was not abated during the entire day. Col. W. C. Breckinridge delivered the address of welcome, which was responded to by Gen. Wheeler in a manner which kept the crowd continually applauding. He will remain in Lexington until to-morrow night, when he will leave for Cincinnati over the Q. & C.
